CE Cleanrooms Introduces Edge Coving System (Patent Pending)

Architectural Cleanroom Coving Eliminates Interior 90-Degree Corners for Sterile Pharmacy Environments

CHICAGO — CE Cleanrooms is introducing Edge at the National Home Infusion Association (NHIA) 2026 Annual Conference. It is a flat-profile coving system designed for sterile pharmacy cleanrooms that eliminates interior 90-degree corners at wall-to-wall, wall-to-ceiling and wall-to-floor transitions, supporting effective cleaning in regulated environments.

The Edge Coving System (Patent pending) creates precise architectural transitions between cleanroom surfaces, helping pharmacy teams maintain sanitary conditions required for sterile compounding.

Unlike traditional corner construction, Edge removes sharp interior corners where particles can accumulate and simplifies routine cleaning. The system integrates with cleanroom wall, ceiling and floor assemblies, supporting a clean, durable architectural finish.

Edge is part of CE Cleanrooms' NHIA Innovation Award finalist Paragon Cleanroom System, a standardized platform for sterile pharmacy environments that integrates architectural design, environmental control and monitoring. It is also available as a standalone product for integration into other cleanroom environments.

“Cleanroom details play a critical role in maintaining sterile environments,” said CE Cleanrooms. “Edge was developed to address one of the most persistent challenges in cleanroom design — interior corners that are difficult to clean and maintain. It reflects our team’s experience designing cleanroom environments where small architectural details have a meaningful impact on performance.”

By improving cleanability at key transitions, Edge helps support long-term cleanroom performance while contributing to compliance with sterile compounding requirements.
